To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing regarding David Osei, who worked in our operations team for a while before moving on. During his time here, David generally met the expectations of his role and did not present any major issues that I am aware of.

He was reliable in terms of attendance and completed the tasks that were assigned to him. I don't have much more to add beyond that, as our day-to-day interaction was fairly limited given the size of the team.

Please let me know if you need anything further.
